You have been prescribed a steroid ointment called _____.
 This medication helps to lower inflammation (redness, swelling, pain) caused by a skin condition on your vulva called:

| <input type="checkbox"/> Lichen Sclerosus         | <input type="checkbox"/> Psoriasis       |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Lichen Simplex Chronicus | <input type="checkbox"/> Zoon's Vulvitis |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Lichen Planus            | <input type="checkbox"/> Other: _____    |

This ointment is safe to apply to (put on) your vulva if it has been prescribed to you for this condition. It is very important to put this ointment on exactly as your health care provider tells you (see highlighted area of picture above). Be careful where you apply the ointment. Putting it on the wrong area can irritate other skin areas or have other side effects.

Tips to remember:

1. Wash your hands just before applying the ointment, and again after you are done.
2. Use only a small, pea-sized or half pea-sized amount of the ointment.
3. Apply the ointment only to the affected area. Do not apply it to healthy skin areas.
4. Do not stop your treatment unless your health care provider says it is OK.
